I am a brazilian-japanese graphic designer who have been working in the field since 1996. I started my career as an intern at my father's printing company. After this experience, I decide to step forward into the video and cinema business in which I have been working in since then.

Dealing with highly skilled professionals from both TV and film industries in the last 15 years, have given me the knowledge and the expertise that I have. It had shown me also how being committed to the company, to the team and to my work, is crucial for the best results - specially when it is required to coordinate a group of individuals as I did in the past.
